

Can the model count, and does it understand the puzzle?

Structural validity and solvability are different axes

Counting vs spatial structure

